FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE, PLEASE

“One of the most powerful productions of a Miller play I have ever seen. By the end you feel both emotionally drained and unexpectedly elated — the classic hallmark of a great production.”
- The Daily Telegraph

“To say visionary director Ivo van Hove’s production is the best show in the West End is like saying Stonehenge is the current best rock arrangement in Wiltshire; it almost feels silly to compare this pure, primal, colossal thing with anything else on the West End. A guileless granite pillar of muscle and instinct, Mark Strong’s stupendous Eddie is a force of nature.”
- Time Out

“Intense and adventurous. One of the great theatrical productions of the decade.”
- The London Times

AT THE LYCEUM THEATRE

Direct from two completely sold-out engagements in London, producers Scott Rudin and Lincoln Center Theater will bring the Young Vic’s critically-acclaimed production of Arthur Miller’s A VIEW FROM THE BRIDGE to Broadway this fall. The production, which swept the 2015 Olivier Awards — winning for Best Revival, Best Director, and Best Actor (Mark Strong) —will begin previews Wednesday evening, October 21 and open on Thursday, November 12 at the Lyceum Theatre, 149
West 45 Street. A View From The Bridge will play an 18-week limited engagement through Sunday, February 21, 2016.

The cast of A View From The Bridge — Arthur Miller’s dark and passionate classic drama set on the Brooklyn waterfront — will be headed by Mark Strong (as Eddie Carbone), Nicola Walker (as Eddie’s wife Beatrice), Phoebe Fox (as his niece Catherine), Emun Elliott (as Marco), and Michael Gould (as Alfieri). The production has scenic and lighting design by longtime van Hove collaborator Jan Versweyveld and costume design by An D’Huys. Additional casting and design team will be announced at a later date.

The Young Vic production of A View From The Bridge premiered in April 2014 to ecstatic reviews and instantly sold out its initial engagement. The production subsequently transferred to London’s West End where it recently concluded another completely sold-out run.

A View From The Bridge received unanimous raves from the London critics. The Guardian described it as “a visceral, vital reinterpretation of a classic play . . . a forceful production of visual brilliance,” adding, “there have been plenty of productions of A View from the Bridge but you’ve never seen it staged like this.” The Financial Times called the show “a superb, searing production. The actors are all magnificent.”’ The production was also hailed by The Independent as “unforgettable,” and by the Evening Standard as “astonishingly bold and magnificent.” The Variety called it “Entrancing and electrifying. A catharsis only theatre can muster. You daren’t blink. This is theatre as an out of body experience.”

Acclaimed Belgian director Ivo van Hove will make his Broadway debut with A View From The Bridge.
